Corry, formerly assistant superintendent of the interurban traction road, who enlisted in an ambulance corps soon after the United States entered the war. Mr. Corry's picture was taken in France and the halftone shows him in the uniform of an ambulance driver. Among the fighting men who enlisted from the local end of the Tenney service are F. J. Fitzsimmons and C. A. Cadette. They are listed among the 86 employees of the company who are with the colors.

John C. Dodge and Charles Minard, the drivers of two Ford automobiles, are none the worse for a book-in which occurred at the corner of Washington and Patterson streets Wednesday afternoon, although the former's car was quite badly damaged in the shuffle. One of the best farm properties in the state was recently sold through the office of the D. A. Perry Real Estate agency when Stanley C. Wilson, administrator of the King estate, sold to Richard Seely and John Geake, both of Barre Town, the Huntington farm in North Randolph and situated on the White River Junction road. The Huntington farm has been in the possession of the Huntington family for the past two generations. The house is the large colonial brick structure situated below the Camp mill and which is well known to travelers.

Over night the police unthreaded an automobile mystery which first attracted their attention when Officer John S. Murley detained a party of Randolph motorists who were occupying a car which did not carry the required number of lights. An informal inquest at police headquarters later developed the information that the driver was unlicensed and for that reason Frank T. Hutchison of Randolph was arrested on a charge of operating a car without a license. To-day the prosecutor wired the office of the secretary of state for information and was informed that a Stockbridge man owns the car and that the respondent was not possessed of any permit to operate it. There was no record of a transfer of the license. After having achieved a great victory, for deceiving the police, Judge Scott imposed a fine of $5 and costs of $5.45, which was paid. The investigation of the car and its owner may go farther.

Dr. O. G. Stickney, who has been designated to supervise the campaign in Barre, presided and Supt. C. H. White of the city schools was elected secretary and treasurer. Various ward committees were named, but in the absence of any confirmation on the part of the appointees, the announcement of the list has been deferred until to-morrow. Halloween activities at the south end centered in a joyous barn dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Adams Wednesday evening, when a company of 30 people came together to celebrate the autumn festival. All of the old-time features of a barn dance were preserved. Fiddler George Williams occupied a pedestal at the head of the floor and between dances the pastimers regaled themselves with sweet cider, doughnuts, apples and popcorn. E. J. Rulfo acted as floor manager and the prompting was done by James Duncan. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. R. D. Carpenter, Mrs. Archie Adams, Mrs. Anna Tyrrell and Mrs. James Duncan of Averill street. Autumnal decorations figured in the interior arrangement and against this setting dancing continued until after midnight.

HERTLING FAILS TO WIN MAJORITY

The Choice of the New Chancellor Challenge to Liberals.

Amsterdam, Nov. 2.—If Count Von Hertling withholds his acceptance of the German chancellorship because he cannot obtain a full majority, in the Reichstag the German parliamentary reformers have achieved a great victory. Berlin dispatches yesterday reported this to be the reason for Hertling's non-acceptance. It would be the first time in the history of Germany that a nominee for the chancellorship had let anything like Reichstag opposition stand in his way. It would be the first time in German history that the Reichstag thus indirectly had managed to impose its will on the Kaiser.

Opposition of the Reichstag majority to Von Hertling, it was reported, was due to the former Bavarian premier's violent and reiterated opposition to all rule of the people.
